BASEBALL

At a meeting of the executive the following additions were made to the rules and regulations of the Empress and District Baseball League:

That a base umpire be employed in all league games. Base umpires to be chosen from among official umpires of the league, or any person who shall be agreeable to the captain of each team.

That the official umpire shall forbid any player other than the manager or captain of the team at bat to come on the diamond during play, and no member of either team, excepting the captain, shall be allowed to dispute with the umpire.

The umpire to have power to enforce this rule by putting of tending member off the field of play for the rest of the game.

Umpires are asked to announce the rule before each game and to strictly enforce it.

The Glevannah vs. Empress, protested game was replayed on the local diamond on Wednesday. The Glevannah team were useless in their work and the Empress team had no difficulty in defeating them by a score of 13-4. Farmers Have Conference

With Education Department

Important Discussion on Educational Affairs. Resolutions of Approval Passed.

The joint educational committee of the U.F.A. and the U.F.W.A. held its first official conference with the Minister of Education and Officials of the Department in Edmonton recently. A very full and satisfactory discussion took place regarding all phases of rural school problems. The efforts of the Department to provide High School opportunity for rural children were strongly approved as was also the general attitude of the Department in defending the autonomous rights of school boards. The members of the Committee made many helpful suggestions and declared their support of any plan that would equalize the educational burden throughout the province.

After the Conference the members of the joint committee met in the Corona hotel and passed the following resolutions which were forwarded to the Minister of Education.

That we are in favor of the authorized form of teacher's contract with an amendment to clause 5 regarding termination of agreement, making this clause reciprocal and providing in the event of either party breaking the contract a minimum penalty equal to one month's salary.

That we favor the principle of the conciliation board.

That we express our approval of the increase in the number of examination centres.

That we are in favor of plan of procedure now followed in forming consolidated schools as outlined to us by the Minister of Education.

That we are glad to note that the number of official trustees has been materially reduced.

That we are in favor of a system of Provincial taxation for educational purposes.

The report was signed by P. Baker, Ponoka, Chairman, Mrs. S. M. Gunn, Paradise Valley, Secretary, Stephen Lunn, Ploucher Creek, Henry E. Spencer, Edgerton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O'Brien, and son Jimmy, visited over Sunday in Duchess, where Jimmy purchased two nice little Duroc Jersey porkers.

The Flaxine U.F.A. Picnic at the river, on the 15th was a big success. A large crowd from all around were present. Mrs. Fraser and Mr. Gardiner were speakers and gave a very good outline of the objects sought for by the farmers. Horse race, foot races, ball games and kicking exhibitions were pulled off in good order. One horse tried to climb into an auto but decided not to after giving the ladies therein a good scare and other horse refused to buck and put his head down and started to eat grass, when the rider got interested and discovered he had mounted the wrong horse

Plenty of ice cream and soft drinks helped to make everybody happy. In the evening, Mr. Nelson Spence M.L.A., from the Hat arrived and gave a short discourse in which he related how the Govt., had come to the aid of the settlers during the strenuous times of 1914 to 1920 inclusive.

A big dance was pulled off in the evening, on the temporary temporary among the beautiful trees. This is a beautiful place for a picnic and should be prepared and laid out for annual picnics.

The surveyors for the big bridge north of Atlee, arrived Sunday night and are now busy making things ready for the construction outfit there will be a boom in Atlee this fall

On Guard

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." This is true in every walk and activity of life. It is not merely of the nation, but of the individual. It is true in the realm of political reform, in the preservation of health, in the success of a business undertaking. The man who is indifferent to, neglects and sleeps on his job, cannot succeed. Failure under such circumstances is inevitable in the long run.

Once again the farmers of Western Canada have seeded their acres. It is to be hoped that, bearing the above advice in mind, they have used only good clean seed, the best that could be obtained. It is to be hoped, also, that to the full extent of their available equipment, and the time at their disposal, they have pursued the best accepted methods of farming and prepared the seed bed in the most approved manner. The man who is indifferent to, neglects and sleeps on his job, cannot succeed. Failure under such circumstances is inevitable in the long run.

The growing season (at the time of writing this article) has been all that could be desired, with copious rains and cool days which give promise of a strong rooting of the grain so that it will be in the best possible condition to withstand a dry period should such befall.

But "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." There are many enemies to a growing crop in this western country. Farmers everywhere must remain alert and vigilant to combat these on every hand. There is the grasshopper scourge. Governments and municipalities have devised and outlined the best methods of fighting this pest, and those materials required to wage the battle have been procured. But official bodies cannot do it all. It remains for the individual farmer everywhere to do his share, to do it promptly and thoroughly. All the precautionary measures should be taken, and an ever watchful eye kept on developments. It is necessary to wage the battle against the grasshopper, not only to save this year's crop, but to insure the success of future crops which the rapid elimination of this danger requires.

Then there is the noxious weed. It takes many forms, but each and every variety is destructive, some, of course, more destructive than others. Noxious weeds have, through neglect, because of neglect in the past, ruined many a fine farm. They are still making headway, and a combined effort warfare by all agriculturists against them is one of the pressing needs of the present time. Noxious weeds cannot be fought by farmers singly. Despite the greatest care by each of farmers, and those few indifferent and neglectful farmers can do irreparable damage to a whole district. The high winds of the west can seed an immense area of land with weeds just as effectively as a drill can seed them.

Farmers complain sometimes of excessive elevator charges taking an undue toll from the receipts of their year's labor; or of the prevailing high freight rates which have the same effect; or of the loss of so many cents being resulted from a sudden drop in the market price. It is important, however, that they should become fully alerted of the fact that noxious weeds, by decreasing the yield from their acres is taking, year after year, a heavier toll than any one of these things, and frequently a heavier toll than all of them put together.

Noxious weeds involve a loss of millions of dollars annually upon the farmers of Western Canada through decreased yield. They impose a further loss in threshing bills. They add more loss in a falling off in grain. Finally, they are a huge bill of expense for work in cleaning the land once it has been seeded, while the capital and sale value of any farm is enormously reduced from the presence of weeds, not only on the farm itself, but in the surrounding district.

Every farmer, therefore, should not only take his personal business to clean his own land, and keep it clean, but he should actively interest himself in the affairs of his municipality and see that, through the enactment and enforcement of necessary laws for the protection of all, his whole district is cleaned up and kept clean.

John Bull's Shirt.

Great Britain is still working along without a general strike, though her coal strike is still unsettled and she is loaded up with unsolved problems, especially labor problems. PALE AND NERVOUS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Need Rich, Red Blood to Regain Health and Strength.

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time home work, examinations, hurried meals and crowded school rooms cause them to become pale and nervous. Their nerves over-wrought and their color and spirits lost.

It is a mistake to let weak children, boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness. Weak children are sure to fall victims of St. Vitus dance, or drift into debility that leads to other troubles. Regular meals, outdoor exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat nervousness of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the school child's blood supply. Keep this rich and red by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the boy or girl who is sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Emma Grand Prix, of Paris, who says: "In the spring of 1919 my daughter, Thelma, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness which developed into St. Vitus dance. She seemed to lose all her strength and at times every muscle in her body seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. J. C. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Palpitation Of the Heart

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to the business duties of their business duties through this unnatural action of the heart.

All such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt relief. Mr. F. X. Gaultier, Tibbury, Ont., writes:—"During 25 years past I was greatly troubled with palpitation of the heart, and sometimes so much so that those around me thought I would die at any moment, being so much weakened by the sharpness of the palpitation which would last sometimes up to 3 hours. I had the doctor who said me taking no medicine to overcome the disease, but to no effect. There was no change at all for the better. Two years ago a friend advised me to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I began to use them at once, and at the second box I began to feel some relief, so I continued to use them according to directions and now I am perfectly well. Before using the pills I weighed 100 lbs., now I weigh 117, and feel as if I were young again. I am over 60 years of age."

The Cattle Commission

Terms of Reference Important to Canadian Interests.

As Canada has a direct interest in the outcome of the investigation now being conducted by a special British Royal Commission in the matter of the cattle embargo, some importance attaches to the terms of the reference under which the inquiry is being made. The commission is composed of Viscount Finlay (chairman), Lord Ashkwith, Sir Algermon Firth, Sir Harry Peat and Sir Arthur Shipley, and the reference is as follows:

"To inquire into the admission into the United Kingdom of livestock for purposes other than immediate slaughter at the ports, whether such action would increase and cheapen the meat supply of the country, and, if so, to what extent, and whether it was advisable, having regard to the necessity of protecting livestock bred in the country from the introduction of disease, and the interests of the farmers who were subject during the war."—Montreal Gazette.

No other person has ever seen a picture or a landscape or a beautiful face or a sunset just as you see it.

No one has ever heard a piece of music or a thunderstorm just as you hear it.

When you and your dearest friend read the same book or hear the same story you will always differ in your understanding of it.

This is because every impression that comes to you is moulded by your own personality. Your personality is like an export and import tax; it touches every act of life—it affects every impression, both coming and going.

Personally is the sum of all your experiences and of your ideas and of your memories, plus your physical condition. Your appearance is a large factor in your effect upon other people; it is one of the great factors in your effect upon yourself.

We all love magic and the supernatural because the everyday humanism of solid fact gets upon our nerves.

Fairy tales are not for children, they are for grown-ups.

We call them "novels" and we always expect the magical power of good to overcome the sorcery of evil.

Our heroes and heroines we always endow with beauty, health, energy or youth, because in our experience these conditions give a desirable personality and contribute to a happy present and a genial old age.

But in our lives we endow with forbidding ill-health, crooked bodies, often with ill-health, because we know that these things warp the disposition and frequently change a pleasant personality into an unpleasant one.

Did you ever hear of a beautiful heroine or a manly hero whose smile glowed with the light of joy and whose eyes were like flames of fire?

"Homing Squirrel" in B.C.

Many Attempts Made to Lose Him Have Failed.

A "homing" squirrel of more than ordinary sagacity and cunning is the subject of a great deal of interest in New Westminster, B.C. It took up its home in the rafters of the home of George H. Small, some months ago with the evident intention of spending the remaining years of life there.

Vanux attempts to lose the squirrel were proven fruitless. On one occasion it was taken to Vancouver and liberated in Stanley Park, but thirty-nine days later it was back in its New Westminster home.

"There is no doubt of the identity of the animal," said Mr. Small, "as he always comes to the same window for his food on his return, and then repairs to the same hole in the roof which is the entrance to his home."

The squirrel has now been taken to West Vancouver, and will either have to swim the inlet or come over on the ferry if he elects to return home.

True Bear Stories

By O-G-E-M-A-S-E (Little Clerk).

(Copyrighted)

An old Indian friend of mine named Robert Bear, (still living), with whom I passed the spring on two neighboring plots in the flooded lands of the lower Saskatchewan many years ago, shared with me about his hunting experiences round the camp fire, same fire being built on a clay bottom, on the poles which formed the floor of each stage, and I have known the water rise very close to the floor, but this only for a short time, and when the ice had jammed at the elbow of the big river.

Robert was a sincere Christian and a devout member of the English Church which has done so much towards the work among the Indian tribes of the Northwest; his grandmother was, it was said an Esquimaux, while he was born and brought up amongst the swampy woods of the lower Red River settlement. A splendid big game and fur hunter, he was remarkably cool in moments of danger at the following incidents which show.

At my request for a story one evening, Robert said, "I was in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company at Fairford Port, situated at the north end of Lake Manitoba, and the master there had occasion to send an express packet of importance to the north, so this I was to take alone on foot, and I decided to strike a direct course through the bush and swamps. It was in the spring of the year and I was travelling light; a H. B. blanket 3 point, two spare pair of moccasins, a single barrel flint lock gun, a knife and scalping knife with some tea, tobacco and matches made up the outfit. I took no provisions, but I did depend on game killed on the way. The distance roughly speaking would be about 160 miles, and on my second morning out I started as usual at the first peep of daylight, and after an hour or so walking came out on the bank of a small round lake, about a mile long, about a mile wide, and the side directly opposite me were two black bears standing on their hind legs and wrestling. I at once slipped a trading bullet into the bear, and shot him in my gun, opened the pan and tapped the stock to show the powder well up, just as I was about to fire this bear dropped on their four feet, looked across at me and each taking different directions started at a clumsy gallop to the top of the lake. One thinks quick in a moment of this kind and I was not prepared with my single barrel to meet both bears at once so I started to run and on one of them, he came on at the same pace and when within a few feet I fired and killed him dead, then with my gun on his body I fired and killed him dead within a few feet of his mate."

"And then, Robert, what did you do?"

"I knelt down and thanked God for mercifully preserving my life. Truly here was a lesson from the Indian, how few white men would have thought of this. But with my gun and my hunt was a good one, the bears were both young males and in prime condition. I decided to camp for a while and dry the skins so that I could put them in my pack and it would mean pocket money in Fort Garry; while the skins, after being carefully skinned, were drying. I cut a quantity of the meat up in thin strips and hung it on stakes in the smoke, this meaning for the trip. There was still a quantity of meat over and I did not want to waste the good food; fortunately there was a muskox close by and on pulling upon a lot of meat, I was able to ice and on that I piled the spare meat, then placed heavy logs over the cache to keep off Mister Wolverine."

This was the only exciting occurrence on the trip, but the next evening I struck a small Indian encampment and was received with great hospitality as usual and in return I directed them to my bears meat cache and told them they were very welcome to the meat.

Many years after this Robert moved with his family to the south branch of the Saskatchewan and when he was a grown-up man, he was offered a post of three black bears skins and at once inquired what happened to the rest of the skins. His story told me by Ne-soo-pa-in-ey-naw was that a huge old grizzly had wandered in from the hills (and not hibernating like the local bears) had found the winter dens of these unfortunate, dug them out, feasted on the meat and thus mutilated the hides; he had followed the track for some distance northwards and then dropped it. In the meantime the news of Mr. Grizzly's arrival had spread far and wide as they were rare visitors in the north country; Robert Bear was one of the first to hear of it and never having shot a grizzly he determined to track him if at all possible.

He was, I think, some three days on the trail, a trail as before with single barrel gun, axe and knife, but at this date percussion locks had replaced the old-time flint, and after several days of searching he found the track at the main Saskatchewan River below the Forks; the bear creased the river here and took to the dense bush. Finally the track freshened and Robert stopped, overhauled his gun, replaced the cap and then with a determination of mind it was either him or the bear or the Great Divide, he waited for a favorable wind, and then, stepping like a bull dancer, he crept along.

Forestry Cheaper Than Chewing Gum

Small Sum Spent For Maintenance of Branches.

Canada's total expenditures on forest protection are about twice over the cost of chewing gum. To any Canadian who may protest that the allotments of money for forest protection by any government or private interest are too small, let him consider some of the bills the Canadian people cheerily pay for their everyday luxuries.

We spend on ice powder and per-fumery $100,000,000. The bill for ice cream cones for juvenile Canadians is larger than the total amount spent on the cost of forest protection and forestry in the province of Ontario.

The national bill for cigarettes alone is over $250,000,000, and for cigars over $120,000,000.

When any complaint is heard that the nation is paying too much for the maintenance of forestry branches, let it be considered that all such expenses bulked together barely come up to the national outlay for the single item of chewing gum.

Glowing Stories From Oilfields

Party From Fort Norman Tell of Riches in District.

A party of nine have reached White Horse, Y.T., from the Fort Norman oil fields with glowing stories of the richness of the district. The party, which was led by Mr. J. H. White, returned from the district in 60 days, including a six-day stop at Fort Norman. The party was composed of the train, and they got back with the 35 dogs which they started.

Members of the party reported that one well 50 miles below Fort Norman was recently capped under a heavy pressure.

Fewer than 100 claims have been staked so far, it is reported. Three trunks packed at Fort Norman supply the district with provisions, there being a small supply of everything except salt.

Representations have been made to Ottawa to permit applications for claims received to be filed with the land agent at White Horse in order to save the long trip to the recording office in Edmonton.

The Elusive Maid.

Joan believed in open and frank friendship with young men, without any sentimentalism. One young man found her an endless amount of trouble.

One evening he plucked up courage and said to her: "I say, look here, jolly old Joan. Let's get married." She replied, with a laugh: "Good heavens! Who'd have said, old thing?"

The Mightiest Jaws.

The wood-testing Titan of the Forest Products Laboratory in Michigan is a machine designed to create a post a foot square like an egg shell, and to exert its million pounds of pressure on a timber structure 30 feet high.

A Great Police Force

Royal Canadian Mounted Stand High in Estimation of West.

The Federal Government was wise in announcing in parliament that the identity of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police would be established. The west needs the mounted police and the great work of the force is a matter of more than pride with all true westerners. The westerners, moreover, of parliament can never appreciate the public deeds of the superb force, while others can but guess at the private work of the body that has made it almost the only known representative of law, order and justice in the far-flung outposts of this part of the British Empire.

No other police in the empire stands so high in the estimation of the law-abiding mounted police men to Canada and many new Canadians have appreciated the public deeds of the superb force, while others can but guess at the private work of the body that has made it almost the only known representative of law, order and justice in the far-flung outposts of this part of the British Empire.

Germany Supplying Houses For France

Defeated Nation Going Into Portable Dwelling Business.

According to the Ministry of Liberalization, Germany is now supplying the delivery of twenty-five thousand wooden houses to be erected in the devastated zone of Northern France. The dwellings in question will be somewhat similar to the portable houses seen in Canadian summer resort camp colonies, but they will be more permanent.

There is something particularly ironical in this Paris announcement and its relation to British Columbia. It means that the defeated nation will be quick to seize upon the possibilities ahead of the wooden house in Canada. And very properly so, for that tremendous business to which Agent-General Wade directed the attention of this province more than twelve months ago, if Germany gets a foothold in Great Britain they may expect her to take the portable house business, and eventually that of the Annapolis—Victoria Times.

Oldest Twins Win Ten Dollars

Men 87 Years Old Take Prize at Musical Comedy.

Twins, 109 pairs of them, 218 brothers and sisters, mostly brothers, attended the musical comedy, "Two Little Girls in Blue," featuring the Fairbanks pair of girls at the Grand Opera House, New York. In response to the announcement that a $10 gold piece awaited the oldest pair who would come to the performance, the musical comedy, Edmund and Leopold Klein, of Brooklyn crossed the East River and took away the chief award for being 87 years young and active. Seats were given to them in a stage box, and with them were seated Mrs. S. B. Borchert and Mrs. Jennie Cohen, twin sisters, aged 78 years, and William and James Farmer, 75 years old, both Civil War veterans. The other twins filled the remainder of the boxes and many seats in the orchestra.

An Unsinkable Plane

Novel Craft Is Designed For English Channel Service.

One of the latest ideas for the continental air service is an unsinkable airplane. It is being constructed by the Stagg Lane Aerodrome Company of Edgware. The buoyancy is obtained by an inflated air balloon fitted into the rear end of the fuselage near the tail. It is figured that this will keep the machine well above water level in the event of an accident, and the roof is fitted with a sliding mica emergency door through which travellers would be able to escape.

Villa's Big Harvest

Former Banait Has Changed From Destruction to Production.

Everybody interested in the prevalence of peace and prosperity in Mexico will be pleased by the statement that Francisco Villa, formerly a leader of bandits in the Southern Republic, expects to harvest 50,000 bushels of wheat in the coming season. He has been granted his own land by the government. He has not actually turned his arms into agricultural implements, but he has changed from destruction to production, and with the aid of modern farming tools, is apparently achieving a success that will redound to his credit. In other words, it is good to know that Villa is now raising grain instead of raising "Cain."

Where Age Is Respected

Turks Work As Long As They Are Capable.

Old age makes itself respected in Turkey by a capacity and willingness to work. A certain Murad, employed as a messenger by the Turkish telegraph office, was offered a pension when he reached his 120th birthday. He refused it, as he meant knocking off work, but his superior insisted he must make room for younger people who otherwise could not get the work. Murad finally agreed to quit, provided his young son was taken in his place. This seemed fair and was told to be the son around. The son presented was a white-haired man more than 70 years old.

Conservation Of Soil Is Necessary

Time Has Arrived to Give Matter Serious Consideration.

Hon. C. M. Hamilton, minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, speaking at the agricultural conference at Saskatoon, said: "It is significant that the need for conservation of our soils has been pointed out for years past by our leading agriculturists. In a report of the Experiment Farm at Indian Head back in the eighties, Mr. MacKay indicates that we must look forward to the time when we shall put back into the soil some of the ingredients which were being taken out through the production of crops. We have all been so concerned with the greater production of grains, however, that nature's warnings, in the form of drought and soil, have not received the attention which they deserve and I am of the opinion that the time has arrived when in many sections of the older parts of the province we must give this matter serious consideration."

Truth-Telling Tommy.

A woman decided to give a house party. She had recently bought a hat rack and was showing that to one of the visitors when her little son came in.

So concerned was the hostess in pointing out the good points of the hat rack that for a few minutes she did not notice the arrival of the little boy, but when she did she saw that he was still wearing his hat.

"Tommy," she said, crossly, "what did I say this hat stand for?"

"For $2," retorted Tommy, "but you said I wasn't to tell anyone."

Austrian Sells Child For $30.

General indignation has been aroused in the town of Ried, in the province of Upper Austria, by the action of George Erlicher, a well-to-do butcher, who said in an item his four-year-old son to a horse dealer for $30,000 crown, now equal to about $30.

In another item Erlicher publicly offered his two other children for sale, asking the same sum for each.

Ready To Market

The Wool Clip

Warehouses Opened at Regina and Portage la Prairie.

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Ltd., are making arrangements for handling the 1921 wool clip of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and as was the case last year they have decided to operate two wool receiving warehouses, one at Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, and the other at Regina. These warehouses will be open to receive wool and sheepskins from June 1 to August 15, and upon request woolbales and paper twine will be sent out to contributors from these points. All correspondence will be handled from the Regina office.

The company on request, in addition to forwarding woolbales and paper twine to contributors, will also forward sufficient Cooper's Dip, kerosene powder or liquid, as desired, to dip their flocks, the cost being deducted from the wool returns. All wool should be weighed by the company's warehouse either at Portage la Prairie or Regina, between June 1 and August 15. The wool will be shipped in car-lots from the above points in original sacks to the central warehouse at Weston, Ont., where it will be graded by experienced graders provided by the Dominion Livestock Branch and weighed by a Dominion Government weighmaster. It has also been arranged that when wool from the producer, an advance payment of approximately two-thirds of the market value of the wool will be paid just as soon as the wool has been graded, the wool being sold when in the opinion of the management, it is possible to obtain a better market value and as soon as it is all sold, final returns will be paid to the producers, who will be paid everything realized from the sale of the wool less the actual cost of marketing, as provided by the bylaws of the company.

Increase In Dairy Products

Valued at Half Million Dollars Over Previous Year.

Percy E. Reed, dairy commissioner for Saskatchewan, is responsible for the statement that there was an increase of 40,000 pounds in the creamery output in the province in 1920. The total value of dairy products for the year in the province was estimated at over $23,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over the total for the previous year. There are now 47 creameries operating in the province, 44 of these having their butter graded by the provincial graders. Over half a million pounds more of government graded creamery butter was sold in 1920 than in the previous year.

Announcement is made that O. S. Finlay, a mining engineer, who has been appointed administrator of the new oil territory on the Mackenzie River. The staff of the administrator will consist of thirty-five men, including a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. This staff will include civil servants, as well as geologists, surveyors, engineers, and all the workers necessary for the opening up of a new country and the establishment of a government.

Dangers of X-Rays

Inch-thick Lead Walls Recommended For Laboratories.

X-rays pass through brick walls and injure many persons in buildings adjoining laboratories, members of the French Academy of Sciences have just been told by Professor Contremin, a French physicist. He advised that X-ray laboratories be completely enclosed in lead sheeting a quarter of an inch thick.

It has been found, Mr. Contremin said, that rays sufficiently powerful to be useful in treating cancer, have sufficient power to burn the skin on the other side of thick walls and in apartments above and below the radiograph room.

Kaiser's Peace Terms.

A document is said to have been found in the German archives in which the former Kaiser outlined the peace terms he intended to impose if he had won in 1917. They included an indemnity of $40,000,000 from the United States. And the Germans expected American sympathy in their resistance to reparations—Buffalo Express.

Thursday, June 23, 1921

The weekly half holiday is causing much discussion among local tradesmen. The majority have stood by their signatures, others have failed to do so. A meeting of the business men affected, that the pros and cons of the case might thoroughly be discussed, we believe would help materially. It could then be threshed out what steps should be taken against defaulters. Individual talk in cases of this kind will lead nowhere.

Political meetings are the order of the day, and many citizens journeyed to Acadia Valley, last Friday, to hear the Hon. T. A. Cregar. There was a very large attendance.

On Monday, in the Grand Theatre, Mayor Bott of Redcliff and R. C. Henderson, M.P., addressed the voters on behalf of Nelson Spencer.

Mayor Bott, dealt chiefly with Mr. Spencer's efforts in securing grain relief during the drought period and drew attention to the abnormal times through which the present government have legislated. Mr. Henderson dealt with the Grain Enquiry Commission. His address was subject to much interruption.

On Tuesday, we had Mrs. Clark Fraser, and the Farmers candidate, Mr. R. A. Gardiner, address the electors. Both speakers were very attentively listened to. Mr. Gardiner explained the conditions and method under which he was nominated. His speech was simple and straight forward and free from the usual political tone. A goodly number of farmers were in attendance.

The announcement that a provincial election is imminent has been freely discussed locally. We find townsmen and farmers are alike in their approval of the manner in which the affairs of the constituency have been handled by Mr. C. S. Fingle, our present member. That he should be retained as member for Redcliff constituency is a popular opinion.

Sunflowers

Much interest is being taken both in Canada and the United States in the value of sunflowers as a silage crop, particularly in districts where corn is not a reliable crop. The claim is made that sunflowers are a harder crop than corn, withstanding drought and frost to the greater degree. Insofar as the claims put forth for sunflowers as food for cattle are virtually of recent origin, experiments and investigation regarding them are practically in an introductory stage. It is interesting to note, however, that an analysis of sunflower silage fed at an Idaho agricultural experimental station indicated that it compared favourably with corn silage. In Canada also studies of the relative value of sunflowers and corn for silage purposes suggest that in nutrition there is not any great difference, although corn is to be preferred where it can be plentifully and easily grown. Where this is not the case, sunflowers are an excellent substitute.

SINGS

D. M. Gray, the Hoosier poet contributes the following: The bumble bees may bumble. The robins they may sing. But poets writing for the press Are the surest sign of spring. The angry clouds may obscure the sun. The thunder may roar in vain. But when Hatfield mounts his derick Why that's a sign of rain.

A Jolt To The Wheel

By Julia Logan Archibald

It really happened. There are people who would doubt it; they would say that the American stage is too
well marshalled for such occurrences.
But they never knew Cary Merle.
And they never knew Kenton Gray.
She could not be called a dancer.
She was too elfin—slight and fine, too elusive and rare. She was only half American. Her mother had been a great Spanish dancer, whose stage career had ended when she married a travelling aristocrat. Cary danced from babyhood. "Teaching" her was the only outlet for her mother's genius. Dancing was woven into the child's play; it was part of every mood—as natural as breathing. She herself did not dream how wonderful she was and her father's family frowned upon any trace of the mother's disapproved though glorious past.

Now she was alone, all her near relatives dead. For a year she had been struggling in New York. She had gone to managers. She was not the usual dancing type—was not in their dictionary, and they would not even give her the opportunity to show she could dance. At last one of them, calculating her decorative effect, gave her a chorus job in the beautiful fantastic opera, "The Enchanted Road."

Kenton Gray was the composer and haunted every performance and every rehearsal with his kind, though weary smile. The opera represented blood and tears, and at last the bloom of life to him. He had had a sort of tragic existence until the tremendous success of this opera, and even now
was not quite happy in his product.

The company was soon to sail for a London season—at least all except Trix, the premiere dancer, who was shortly to accompany matrimony.
Kenton Gray had never been pleased with her, though technically she was perfect, but as the weeks passed and no one was found worthy to take her place, the troubled look sank deeper into his eyes.

The company adored Cary. She made you feel you were somebody else the person you always wanted to be. Nobody was jealous of her. She never got anything definite that anybody else wanted. She just drifted, carelessly shedding light for others to bask in. If men loved her, she never told her so. It was like loving an elf or a nymph—she seemed so detached, so intangible.

Kenton Gray had singled her out from the first—in an absent-minded sort of way. He used to call her to him sometimes during long lonesome waits. He talked to her about her old home in Charleston,
her father and mother, and his manner was always quite fatherly. Her happy chatter seemed a little stifled
with him.

The orchestra leader, Leon Vallon,
was a queer genius, a sort of protector of Kenton Gray's. He and Cary were great friends.
"Why is he always so sad?" she asked one day when no name had been mentioned.

"Oh, I don't know," he said, "just the loneliness of genius, I suppose."
And then he's troubled about the dancer. You see most people wouldn't understand. I don't think he understands himself, but he's put his whole idea of love into that role—the enchanted—perhaps nobody will ever do it to please him—unless,
perhaps—well he's always be disappointed in it perhaps."

"It's too bad," she said mistily. "He can't be happy in it—it's so beautiful.
It's the enchanted road of life. Why,
it makes me happy and I'm only a little spot of shyness alongside of it.
Oh, if—if he only could!"

Then it was that the idea struck Vallon. He had often played for Cary to dance, just for the sheer joy of it and he had a dim realization that her dancing was unusual, and perhaps he had a dim realization of something else, too.

But now Vallon's soul was stirred,
and so it was he hatched the plot.
Walburn, the producer, was to sail
the next day, two weeks ahead of the company. Some English dancer would be secured—of very doubtful quality.

Vallon told Trix, who readily consented to be his accomplice. "But do you think she'll do it? Has she the nerve? She is about as practical as a foetus in litter."

When he went to Cary she looked bewildered, her lips trembling. Then she said she would.

At seven forty that night she was peering into a cracked mirror in the dressing room putting the last touch of make-up on the end of her tip-tilted nose. Later, out in front, she moved in a daze, but at Vallon's scolding eye, she managed little make-believe until she came to the end of her line.

The act was nearing the end. The chorus line was swinging down stage preparatory to going off at the other side. Cary was the last of the line.

The lights were lowered and the spotlight turned on for Trix's dance, but there was no Trix. (Trix could faint as casually as a Jane Austin heroine.)

Cary stood stock still until she was alone on the stage.

She was panic-stricken. She could not move until she saw Vallon's face and sideways and his hand beckoning her.

She reached the spot of light in the center. The stage manager was all but shouting at her from the wings.
Trix, in his box, shot up right like a pillar of darkness. A strange strange music came from the wings and she closed in around her. And somewhere out in front she knew was Kenton Gray groping his way toward his own end of the road.

Then the orchestra began to call to her, rising and falling in rhythmic melody. Her body began to sway with the music, as lightly as a flower bends in its stem.

The spotlight followed her, the stage director became quiescent, and Cary began to dance. Her face was alight with a soft seraphic smile,
and the audience held its breath.

She danced in a slow swinging motion, like the rising and falling, in circles of light of a bird, a little white night-bird all shimmer with silver-blue moonlight. Fontaine of melody rose and swelled and burst in a myriad bright drops of ecstasy, while her little feet danced with the light exquisite pitter of a fairy foot.

Round and round she danced in widening circles. Now she became a gray-blue curling wreath of smoke about in low shadowy chords of sound. It was all in the night and somewhere were the moon and stars and the endless sky, and the tinkle of facile bells. Formless dreams floated into the hearts of those who saw and peace hung upon a young and sinister world.

Her swinging grew to whirling and the whirling into swirling, until she became a mere spinning spot, and in a mass of color. At last, still upon her toes, with arm stretched wide, she skimmed down the whole length of the stage, as the curtain went down, her head drooped and she sank into a heap before the footlights,
drowned in her own glory.

They picked up the limp little form and bore it to the dressing room. The terrible storm of applause thundered madly, until the manager appeared with uplifted hand to say that Sentorita Carita was indisposed. If possible she would reappear during the next act, and on succeeding evenings,
in one of her original dances.

It was fifteen minutes later that Cary opened her eyes and let them rest comfortably upon Kenton Gray's face, while the orchestra played dreamily out in front. In some manner of his he was keeping the crowd away from her. She took him quite as a matter of course, and when he paused in the chafing of her hand and smiled to see her returning strength,

she was glad he was no longer sad.
She brushed back a lock of hair from his forehead, as if she had done it a hundred times before. Then she closed her eyes again.

He leaned nearer her, breathing
fast. "Cary," he hurried, "Walburn will be here in a few moments with a contract for you to sing. You're the sweetest little thing that God ever made. All I want is you! That's all I ever wanted. You don't need to dance for Walburn. It's like buying and selling Heaven. Can't you—do you—love—"

Her eyes opened slowly. "Oh, yes," she said languidly, "I do. I have all along of course. That's why I—I didn't mind jogging the wheel of Fate a little."

For British Preference

Reasons Why Canadians Should Buy
Within the Empire.

"The new Budget has made it more advantageous than ever for Canadians to buy British goods rather than those of United States manufacture," declared Captain Evan J. Edwards, senior British Trade Commissioner in Canada, in a recent interview in Montreal. "It will also be a big help to agents and business houses who prefer to do business with the Mother Country."

The Home Of No Trash

BY LORETTA G. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

Most homes contain little or much trash. And it is not until one starts to move or houseclean that she discovers how many useless things she is harboring.

A bride of a year came to me the other day with a confession. Said she,
"This housekeeping job is not what I thought it would be. I work just all the time—and you simply have to work all the time
if you are to keep your house in good order."

She invited me to her home of seven rooms and bath.

One engine room was devoted to What Not and other trash. It was termed "The Den." And it was laden to capacity with things from a miniature of Cleopatra's Needle to the latest in electric kettles, and, of course, her decidedly realistic, anchor.

To make it a trashless home, it would have been necessary to rid
it of much of the ENCUM-BRANCES in that Den.

But there is another type of trash hanger-on. It is the home in which everything of no use is relegated to the unloving bathroom or guest (?) room or kitchen or attic.

Every housewife recognizes in her heart that there is trash of some kind in her home. Why doesn't she get rid of it? For, it takes REAL courage to resist the heart throb that comes to the born hoarder when she parts with that worn-out washboard—

when she makes off with the mangy hairbrush, the peeling mirror, the ruined umbrella, the headless doll,
the tripy do-mat, the time-worn brassy teaspoon and the cracked plate.

In contrast to the home cluttered with trash, let me tell you about a really beautiful home. At first you wondered why you felt such a sense of restfulness. And soon you began to realize that the charm of this home was due in great measure to its lack of furniture and furnishings.

As you entered, you came into the reception hall. On either side of the fireplace was a built-in bookcase.
There was one large, delightfully round table, a built-in window seat, a wicker armchair. And you looked at the vivid Indian rug on the floor and eye wandered over unencumbered wall space until it rested on one exquisite, soft-silting picture.

Here housekeeping was just like living house for it was a trashless home.

Hollow Prison Bars

Filled With Water, Slightest Leak
Would Cause Investigation.

A new type of bars, designated for prisons are of hollow metal, filled with water. These pipes are all connected with a central pump, and the water is kept under high pressure.
Thus, the slightest break in any bar would cause a powerful jet of water to spout. To continue filling the bar would be almost impossible. Also the fact that there was a leakage somewhere would be registered on a dial on the central pump, and lead to speedy investigation.

JOSEPH DROUIN, of Montreal, declares he suffers six years with dyspepsia, but six bottles of Tanlac made a new man of him—Gained 35 pounds.

"I could hardly believe my own eyes when I weighed 135 lbs. after taking six bottles of Tanlac and five pounds in weight," said Joseph Drouin, 2194 A. St. Denis St., Montreal, who, for the past twenty years, has been passenger conductor on the Canadian Pacific Railway and is well and favorably known along the line of his run between Montreal and Mount Laurier.

"Before I started on this medicine I was in a bad way. For years I'd had to take my meals, here, there, and everywhere, and as the result of this irregular eating, my internal machine got all out of working order. I lost all desire for food and what little I ate would turn first and bloat me up until I could hardly breathe. I became so nervous I couldn't sleep at all until it was and was often so tired in the morning I didn't care whether I took my train out or not. I fell off twenty-five pounds in weight and became alarmed about my condition, for I had tried all sorts of medicine without getting any relief."

"Then, one day I read a statement in the paper which decided me to give Tanlac a thorough trial. Well, I never would have believed any medicine could do me so much good in such a short time. It quickly settled my stomach and gave me such an appetite that I could eat three good square meals a day and no longer have any trouble with indigestion or gas and I sleep so well at night, even when on the road, that I think I would take a collision to wake me up. I now turn the scales at two hundred and ten pounds, which is ten pounds more than I ever weighed in my life and I feel better in every way than I have for a very long time. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever tried."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

A Giant Parachute

Could Lift Cabin With Passengers From Airplane in Distress.

A parachute large enough to lift the cabin complete with all the passengers from an airplane in distress was described by T. Orde Lees, in a lecture to the Royal Aeronautical Society in London.

The decision and operation were placed in the hands of the pilot, so that the passengers were not called upon to think for themselves.

During the war (the lecturer estimated) 200 British pilots jumped without parachutes from the rear of machines at high altitudes rather than be roasted to death. All were killed. Nearly all would have been saved if they had had parachutes.

Addressing Letters

System Used by Spain Must Save Many Times.

Is our method of addressing an envelope, I wonder, the best one? In Spain the method adopted is exactly the reverse to ours. The name of the country to which the letter is to be sent is written at the top of the envelope, the name of the town next, and on the following line, the personal or private address, while on the last line the name of the addressee is inscribed. I suppose the sorter arranges his letters according to the name of the country first, town next, precinct of that town last, while the postman and the recipient only are concerned with the name on the envelope, so that the saving of time which this system must effect seems to contradict the impression that the Spanish are "inefficient." Can there be any reason not readily apparent, which has kept other countries from adopting this system?—The Westminster Gazette.

For years Mother Graves' Worm Extremator has ranked as a reliable worm preparation and it always maintains its reputation.

Skeletons of

Warriors Found

Thought to be Soldiers of William the Conqueror.

Fifteen skeletons have been discovered at Wiltshire Hill, Eastbourne, England, during excavations for road widening. An iron dagger was also found.

It is thought that the remains are those of warriors buried after the Battle of Hastings in 1066. The hill is situated near Pevensey Bay, where William the Conqueror landed. Twelve years ago, when similar discoveries were made, daggers were found in pits and spears in skulls.

WHEN BABY IS ILL

When the baby is ill; when he cries a great deal and no amount of soothing or petting makes him happy, Baby's Own Tablets should be given immediately. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make breathing easy. Concerning them Mrs. Dreiser writes: "I have found them to be my baby's own Tablets. I have found them of great benefit to my baby when he was suffering from constipation and I can strongly recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are available by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brooklyn, Ont.

The patriotic man is loyal to his country and to the community in which he lives. If he is consistent he will give first preference to Canadian made goods when making purchases. He will also stand loyal by his local dealer.

Ready-made Medicine—You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is available for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains and it is unsurpassed, while for cuts, sores and the like it is an unquestionable healer. It needs no testimonial other than the use, and it will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

British Coal Imports Mostly Canadian The importation of Canadian coal seems to be a somewhat important factor in meeting the situation caused by the miners' strike in Great Britain. Recently a despatch to the London Times dealing with the receipts of foreign coal, emphasized the fact that nearly all the vessels arriving at Glasgow with coal cargoes were Canadian.

Miss Agnes Robb of the Garbutt Business College made a rather unique record in typing this month. Writing on an Underwood machine, she wrote at a rate of 44 words per minute, winning the Underwood Certificate of Proficiency. She then took a test on a Remington to which she was not accustomed and made a record of 40 words per minute with only three errors in the ten-minute test, which entitled her to the Remington card case and efficiency certificate. Miss Robb has accepted a position with the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Empress, Alta.

Miss Robb is an ex-student of Medicine Hat High School where she left a record and made also a great success in music as a pupil of the Pressing studios.—Lethbridge Herald.

The sports committee are confidently looking forward to a big day and since the crops are picking up again after the rain Thursday prospects for making a show are better.

Mr. N. L. Spencer the Union Guy candidate spoke in the U.F.A. Hall, last Wednesday, and got a most attentive hearing.

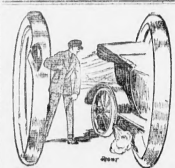

On Thursday, a long expected rain fell and made a wonderful change in the look of the crop and bid adieu to the settlers to their hearing of about draught relief. It might be said that the rain might be a blessing in disguise, but providence brought the moisture and the farmer had his part ready and so we "wary on".

The Junior U.F.A. delegates arrived back in Cavendish from the Edmonton Convention, well pleased with their trip and are looking forward to giving a big report of the doings there at their meeting, so all the junior members should be present. Each of the delegates are good speakers and should give an interesting message.

Herb England, the popular manager of the big store was demonstrating the nice easy driving qualities of his new Ford last Saturday night.

The result of the baseball game Saturday afternoon did please the boys, they beat, big Bill's team by 8 to 6.

Everybody was out to hear Gardiner's speech last Saturday night and they sure will never regret going, all agreed that he spoke to his policy and talked shop for all the time he was on the platform. We believe that is the proper electioneering method and is probably not satisfying to the lovers of mud-slinging tactics but is more instructive, educational and cuts more figure with the majority than the old time riots one used to look forward to.
